

Provincial Health Teams Across Districts Participate in Regional Training Centre Quarterly Performance Review Meetings

Participants engage with presentations during the Regional Training Centre Quarterly Performance Review Meetings, listening to key insights and discussions aimed at strengthening programme implementation and service delivery.

The Regional Training Centre Quarterly Performance Review Meetings brought together representatives from different districts for a three-day engagement at Garden Court, Ku Gombo, East London, providing a platform for reflection, training, knowledge sharing and review of programme implementation.

The engagement created an opportunity for districts to reflect on quarterly progress, share experiences from their respective areas, discuss key observations and identify areas requiring continued support and development. It also encouraged learning and knowledge exchange across districts.

Training and practical learning formed an important part of the engagement, including feedback from the Health Promotion team's community-based work and household engagements. The team shared experiences from working directly with communities, highlighting practical lessons from household-level engagements.

The programme also included practical training at Mdantsane Clinics, where Outreach Team Leaders, Health Promoters and Community Health Workers received guidance on the use of CommCare to support data collection, referrals and reporting during their community-based activities.

Knowledge sharing was further supported through a presentation by the Foundation for Professional Development on its project report, From Surviving to Thriving: Integrating Mental Healthcare into Chronic Care for Adolescents and Young People. The presentation contributed to the broader learning and professional development objectives of the engagement.

Monitoring and evaluation discussions provided districts with an opportunity to share feedback, reflect on implementation experiences and identify areas for continued development.

The three-day Regional Training Centre Quarterly Performance Review Meetings provided a collaborative platform for different districts to engage, learn from one another and reflect on programme implementation across the province.
